

ANP Online Summer Class – How to Login to Your Online Class Website

In this tutorial, I will show you how to access your new online course website. If you're enrolled in any of the anthropology or ISS courses that use Wordpress as their online course site, you will receive an invitation via email from your instructor.

That invitation looks something like this. For the sake of this tutorial, I'll be using ANP 204 as an example. Your class site may look much different, but the basic steps and how to log in and change your profile information is the same. Once you open up the email, you want to go ahead and click on the second link, and that will bring you to the course site.

This is what the 204 course site looks like. Again, yours might look much different. As you can see, it says that your account is now active. It also gives you your user name, which is most likely your Net ID.

It also gives you a temporary password, which you might want to write down. I'm going to go ahead and just select it, and copy it so I can paste it later on. Now that my account is active, I'm going to go ahead and log into the site.

Here it's asking you for your user name, which you remember as most likely you're Net ID. For me it was ANP204online. And my password is what I'm just going to paste into this window.

Once you log in, you're going to see a page which is called your "Dashboard". As you can see, there's a number of functions. What I want you to do is go ahead and click on the left side where it says "Profile".

Go ahead and skip the information at the top, and move on to where it says "Name". Here you want to go ahead and type in your "First Name". Your "Last Name". Your "Nickname" can stay the same. But what I want you to do is go ahead and change where it says "Display Name Publicly As" to your first and last name.

Most likely that's what your instructor is going to want. If you'd like, you can go ahead and update the rest of this information. And here is where you can actually change your password. So I'm going to go ahead and change my password. Now that you've changed your password, you can go ahead and click update. And that's it. When you're ready, you can go ahead and visit your site by clicking this top button here.

And there you go. You're logged into your site. If you ever want to go back to the Dashboard, just click back on "Dashboard", and you'll be back in the backend. Thanks for watching.
